

I have learned in traveling around the country that the most obnoxious people in the world are big loud-mouthed asses talking on cell phones. I can't believe some of the subjects that these people talk about. Please, don't let them use their cell phones on an airplane. It's very important to get a nap on flights or to do some silent work on our laptops as an opportunity to keep up with our hectic work schedules.